THE BIG FIGHT.

Enterprising Associate press agents have already located the big fight for the National championship in this city. While these dispatches seem to have no foundation whatever, the State of Nevada has always been regarded by pugilists as an ideal place for a contest of that kind. Of late years pugilism has assumed the status of a National sport and the laws of many of the conservative Eastern States are recognizing it as such. As it seems impossible to control it, and licensing it and regulating it seems the only alternative.

New York now allows glove contests where the number of rounds are limited, and such a law in Nevada would bring ten or twelve thousand people here twice a year to witness championship contests, and the license arising from such a source would be considerable.

There is hardly a day in the year that a prize fight does not take place in some State in the Union and no attention is paid to it, but the moment a championship contest is spoken of, there is a great uproar. The whole thing should be licensed and regulated and brought under proper legal restrictions.

A CLEAN CONTEST.

It is a cheering indication of advanced decency in politics to note that the Senatorial contest at Sacramento was conducted as a clean affair throughout. There was no sign of money being used in any quarter and there was no ill feeling or newspaper abuse indulged in.

Particularly noticeable was the honorable and above board candidacy of Samuel Shortridge. He entered into no compromising combines, promised no patronage and did nothing except signify his willingness to enter the lists as a candidate for the sake of party harmony. He was in every way fitted for the place and showed throughout the contest that a man could enter such a fight and still maintain his dignity and self respect. His telegram of congratulation to his successful opponent showed the courtesy and good breeding of the man.

Mexico's Prosperity.

The Mexican Herald of recent date contains the following article, which shows the advantage of using silver as money.

"It is interesting to note that just as Mexico is spreading her silver tipped wings for a higher flight into the upper air of healthy prosperity, great American journals are telling their readers that the United States is no longer a virgin country of vast and unexplored resources, and that the American people must now begin to reckon with the conditions that surround older civilizations."

"Here we are looking for the days of greater things; we have bigger banks than any in the United States; we have more hopeful pioneers of industry; our capitalists are planning every day some thing new, and have a habit of getting dividends out of their enterprises. The treasury is full and a surplus confronts us. Minister Limantour finds the finances so satisfactory that he abandoned some of the economies needed in our day of smaller things." President Diaz's ample brain is teeming with progressive ideas and he is letting them out daily. You can get good interest on your money here, and combine of the United States have not all crossed the border yet with sharp teeth set like a pack of hungry wolves eager to fatten on Mexican prosperity.

"Mexico stands a great, big, luminous, solid silver example of sound government, sound finances and money."

The News that Mark Hanna's health is breaking down comes at a particularly unfortunate moment. The shattering of the nervous system of the new President of the United States almost on the eve of his inauguration bodes ill for the success of the Republican administration. Mr. Hanna was not on our side of the fence this year, but nevertheless, we hope that he will get well. He was the choice of the people, and Providence, we trust, will spare him, so that we may know what manner of executive he will make.—Sacramento Bee.
